A New Zodiac Animal

My new zodiac animal is the flying cat. It has two wings, four legs and one tail. It also has a lovely face. The flying cat can fly in the sky and jump from the ground to the forty ninth floor.

It is a gentle and a friendly animal. It likes to play with many children and it is outgoing.

It has special powers. When the flying cat smiles at you, you will have good luck. It makes you happy. When the flying cat meows at you, you will get a kiss from your mum.

It can also help people. It can teach children how to do their homework and it is very patient. It is a good Chinese teacher and tells many Chinese stories to children. I love the flying cat so much.

A New Zodiac Animal

My new zodiac animal is the axolotl. It has a pair of arms and a pair of legs. Although they have lungs, they cannot survive on land. Axolotls are neotenic salamanders so they live their lives completely underwater! The reason they cannot survive on land is that they primarily rely on gills and skin respiration. You can keep them as pets as they are friendly!

For powers, they can regenerate limbs, jaws, tails, spinal cords, skin and organs including parts of their brain and heart, without scarring. They can also regenerate bones, muscles and tissues! Moreover, they can even regenerate the thymus and optic nerves. Due to their amazing ability to regenerate limbs, they can help humans by contributing to scientific research for generative medicine. They are highly useful. Therefore, I believe the axolotl should be the thirteenth zodiac animal.

My Chinese New Year Party

Dear Aniya,

You are invited to my Chinese New Year party! The celebration will be held on the 20th February at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. It will be held at my home. If you do not know where it is, you need to go to Fu Hung Estate and I will meet you there.

We can eat sweets, chocolate, vegetables, fruit and many more different foods! I will tell stories and my mum will prepare board games, card games and other fun activities. You should wear something that is red or something with Chinese patterns. If you don't have anything like that, please remember to buy new clothes. I don't know if you have any money to buy new clothes as I will not check your bank account. If you do not have any money at all, then show your parents this invitation. I hope they will pay for you. If they don't pay, dress in everyday clothes and good luck with the ask.

You can bring your friends, gifts, fruit, vegetables, meat, jelly, ice cream, pie, seafood, nuts, chocolate, herbal jelly and some other snacks. We can also play some outdoor games like 'Hide and Seek', 'What's the time Mr Fox?', and play sports such as basketball, football, tennis, table tennis, swimming and badminton too.

I hope you can come to my party. Do not stress if you cannot make it. We will try again next year!

Best wishes,

Janis

My Chinese New Year Celebration

Chinese New Year is the most popular festival in Chinese culture. This festival is celebrated by Chinese families around the world. I like Chinese New Year because I can not only receive red pockets, but also celebrate with my family. Having our reunion dinner and hanging up spring couplets were the most unforgettable experiences in my Chinese New Year holiday.

Moreover, I went to the Lunar New Year Fair with my family. My mum likes flowers so she bought an orchid. My sister and I bought cute balloons and we played with them happily.

Besides, my mum made sweet dumplings. They were so delicious and they symbolise family reunion. My dad also made nian gao. I like eating nian gao and it symbolises prosperity.

It is a great time to spend time with my family during Chinese New Year.

The Friendly Dragon and the Village

Once upon a time, in a small village, there lived a friendly dragon named David the Dragon. David loved to help people, especially during celebrations. This year, it was the Year of the Horse, so the villagers wanted to hold a party to celebrate these special days, but they had no idea how to do it.

David thought for a moment. "I can help!" he said. First, David created some beautiful ice sculptures of horses. He placed them all around the village square. The sculptures shimmered in the sunlight.

Next, he collected the reddest berries from the tallest mountain. He showed the children how to squeeze them to make a special red dye. They painted long strips for paper with wishes for a good year and hung them on every door.

However, David found his magical powers were getting weak. He couldn't create the most amazing fireworks. The villagers saw their friend looking sad. An old woman gave him a cup of warm tea. "Don't worry, David. Let us help you," she said.

All the villagers gathered some wood and colourful dried flowers. David aimed a small spark at the pile. WHOOSH! The pile ignited and a beautiful rainbow-coloured display appeared in the night sky. Everyone felt surprised.

The villagers gathered in the square. They danced under the beautiful fireworks, together with David's ice horses and adorable decorations. Everyone felt it was the most unforgettable party they had ever had.

From that year on, David the Dragon was not just a helper, but a true part of the village family. They had learned that the best magic of all was working together.

The Friendly Dragon and the Village

Once upon a time, in a small village, there lived a friendly dragon named David the Dragon. David loved to help people, especially during celebrations. This year, it was the Year of the Horse, and the whole village was buzzing with excitement for Chinese New Year.

David wanted to make this festival extra special. He decided to use his magical powers to help the villagers prepare. First, he breathed warm, golden fire to dry all the red paper lanterns that had been so soaked by a sudden rainstorm. The villagers cheered as the lanterns glowed bright again, hanging like little suns in the village square.

But trouble came when a strong wind blew in from the mountains, threatening to tear down the large New Year's gate the village had built. David flapped his powerful wings, creating a gentle, steady breeze to hold the gate's strong bamboo poles in place.

Next, he used his magic to make the village's horses look as if they were from a fairy tale. Their manes and tails shimmered with silver and gold, and their hooves left tiny sparkles on the ground as they pranced through the streets. The children laughed and clapped as they rode on the backs of the enchanted horses.

David decided to use his magic to help. He breathed warm fire to dry the wet decorations, then blew away the dark clouds to bring back the sun.

The villagers cheered and hung the dry lanterns. They celebrated the New Year happily and David felt proud to have helped his friends.

The Year of Your Zodiac Animal Transformation!

On the night of Lunar New Year, as the fireworks lit up the sky, there was a strange feeling in the air. Suddenly, I transformed into my zodiac animal, the goat and everything changed...

It all started with a special wish I made while holding a cut-out paper goat decoration that my mum had made.

I whispered, 'I wish I could experience New Year as a gentle goat.'

The paper goat fluttered into the wind and, in a blink, my body grew soft white fur. My hands turned into hooves and two curved horns sprouted from my head.

From my new goat's view, the world looked warm and peaceful. The dining table was like a green meadow, and the red couplets on the door fluttered like colourful flowers in the breeze. Every step I took felt steady and calm like I was walking on grass.

For Lunar New Year, I didn't eat dumplings or sweet rice balls like we usually do. Instead, I found a basket of fresh green vegetables and sweet hay that my grandma had prepared. They were crisp and sweet – my favourite treats!

My family was surprised at first when they saw me but my little brother giggled and fed me a piece of fresh lettuce. My dad took photos of me with the red lantern and my mum wove a garland of jasmine flowers around my horns for good luck.

Being a goat made this Lunar New Year felt extra special. I trotted to the community square and joined the lion dance performance! I even climbed a small hill nearby!

After, when I was thinking about these things, I was suddenly taken back to my own body.

This special event had taught me a lot and it was truly unforgettable for me.

The Year of Your Zodiac Animal Transformation!

On the night of Lunar New Year, as the fireworks lit up the sky, there was a strange feeling in the air. Suddenly, I transformed into my zodiac animal, the snake and everything changed...

I slithered across the cool floor. My scales glinting like polished emeralds. The world looked different now – every sound was sharper, and I could feel the faint vibrations of my family's footsteps through the wood.

My little brother gasped and pointed, 'Look! A green snake!'

But my grandmother smiled softly, saying, 'It's Jenny, come to celebrate with us.'

For Lunar New Year, I explored the house in a new way. I tasted the sweet, juicy flesh of a fallen tangerine and the crisp leaves of the potted orchid on the windowsill. My family left bowls of fresh water near me, and I even helped my mother 'find' a lost red envelope under the sofa by sensing its warmth with my tongue.

Being a snake changed my Lunar New Year completely. I felt a deep connection to the earth and understood the meaning of 'renewal'. When the first light of dawn painted the sky pink, I felt a warm glow rap around me again and I changed back into a girl holding a small jade snake pendant in my hand.

Mystery of the Zodiac Animals

In a quiet forest, the animals of the Chinese zodiac were getting ready for New Year, celebrating the Year of the Horse. But something strange happened! The beautiful horse statue, a symbol of good luck, went missing, and no one knew where it was. The animals were worried.

The rabbit said, 'Will we have bad luck this year?'

As soon as the rabbit said this, all the animals in the forest became frightened.

The horse summoned up his courage and said to everyone, 'Please don't be scared. We know this forest very well. Even though the horse statue is missing, or was stolen, we will work together to find it.'

The animals in the forest picked themselves up again! Each animal used their special skills to look for clues.

The rabbit used its ears to hear the little movements but there were no strange sounds.

In the west we call it a 'dragon', in the east we call it 'long'. The dragon could fly. It flew in the sky and found no suspicious figures or the statue.

The snake could crawl in the grass. It didn't find the statue there either.

The monkey could shuttle back and forth in between the trees but it didn't find it.

The dog used its special nose that could smell anything strange. But even the dog couldn't find it!

However, the mouse had an agile body and could fit into small places. It crawled into a bird house in the forest. 'Wow!', said the mouse. It was surprised because the bird house had gold earrings, necklaces, silver rings and crystal bracelets! Finally, the mouse found the statue and returned to the other animals! They were over the moon!

After their sumptuous dinner, they were curious and angry about who had stolen their symbol! The animals decided to find out. They arrived at that strange bird house and saw a black bird flying in.

Suddenly, the tiger tackled it. It turned out that it was a crow! The crow liked things that shined so he stole the horse statue from the animals.

The crow returned everything that didn't belong to him to the original owners and said sorry to them.

What a great ending to the story!

A Surprising Red Envelope

On Chinese New Year's Eve, a young girl named Helen was excited about this year's red envelopes!

This year, it was the Year of the Horse which symbolised speed and grace. Helen had hoped for something special because she was born in the Year of the Horse.

Suddenly, Helen's grandmother handed her a paper-thin but glossy red envelope. Her relatives all whispered, 'Helen's red envelope is the thinnest.' But Helen didn't feel unhappy. She was excited about this thin red envelope instead.

Helen opened the envelope with care, her breath catching when she revealed its content. Inside lay a single sheet of paper. It was a record and memory of her grandmother's life - the adventures of her youth, the places she had travelled to and, most importantly, the invaluable message written at the end:

"Nothing is more precious than ancient wisdom. May you carry this knowledge with you to overcome all of the challenges ahead."

Helen cradled the almost weightless red envelope in her palms, feeling the words shift its weight that she hadn't felt before.

She understood that this was the most meaningful red envelope.

Zodiac Animals with Powers

Once upon a time, there were twelve zodiac animals. Each of them had special powers. They lived in the same city and they protected it so that every animal could live peacefully.

One day, there was a big and strange storm overcasting the whole sky. All of the animals felt really weird. Without a sign, a huge oval disc popped out of the thick black clouds, landing on the ground.

The monkey climbed up to the top of the tree and observed what it was. 'OH! It's a UFO!'

At the same time, the alien came out from inside of the UFO! The alien announced loudly that he would destroy the city and occupy it. The animals all felt scared.

All of a sudden, some thunder-like beams were emitted from the UFO. The beams struck the forest and the animals' homes were all burnt! The animals were shocked and no one could bear the sight of such destruction.

All of the animals gathered together to discuss how to save the city.

The cow and the pig decided to use their big tummies to store water and put out the fires. The rooster and the dog used their alarming voices to help the other animals come out of the fire. The dragon flew up to the sky and puffed fire balls at the UFO to melt it down.

Since this was the Year of the Horse, the horse was granted the most valuable super power and strength. He raced quickly to catch the running alien. He used his steel-like strong legs to kick the villain to the end of the earth!

Finally, all the animals saved their city hand in hand. This day marked a new chapter of the city. From then on, all animals realised how teamwork and cooperation could make them stronger.

A Surprising Red Envelope

On Chinese New Year's Eve, a young girl named Heidi was excited. She sat at the table with her family, waiting for the red envelopes. This year, it was the Year of the Horse and Heidi was hoping for something special.

Suddenly, her grandmother handed her a shiny red envelope. Heidi carefully opened it and was shocked by what she saw inside! There was a golden key, pocket money and a note!

She went inside her room to read it. It said:

"Happy New Year, Heidi! Do you still remember the stories I told you when you were little? There's a magical world hidden inside of our world. Now, you can use the magic key to go to the magic forest. First, take the key in your hand. Then, close your eyes. After a while, you should be teleported to the magical world. There are lots of animals in the forest so please take care of them. May you have a successful year!"

Heidi ran joyfully back to the table, thanked her grandma and ate her dinner.

After dinner, Heidi tested the magic key. She saw a beautiful view! Tall trees were exuberant and the sun was shining brightly. All of a sudden, a wolf spoke to Heidi.

Heidi's jaw dropped to the ground. 'How did a wolf speak? It's impossible!'

The wolf realised Heidi was surprised. It said, 'If you can understand me, you are the protector of the forest!'

Heidi danced with joy! All of the animals arrived to celebrate with them.

The animals said, 'On Earth, animals suffer from the pollution that humans make. We hope you can study hard and help all of us in different places.'

Heidi went to the magic world every day to take care of those animals. She learnt that we should protect animals instead of destroying their homes and hurting them.

A Day at the Shopping Centre

It is Sunday afternoon. Mabel and her dad are in the Fun Fun Shopping Centre. Mabel sees a cute rabbit from a toy shop. She wants to buy it so she goes into the toy shop. However, Dad doesn't know Mabel enters the toy shop. Mabel is happy at that moment.

But after half an hour, Mabel cries in the toy shop because she can't find her dad. A lady comes and asks, 'What's wrong little girl? Can I help?' Mabel replies, 'I can't find my dad.' She is sad.

Then the lady says, 'Do you want to call your dad? Do you know his phone number?' Mabel replies, 'Yes, please! It's 53421678.' Mabel feels blue.

Next, Mabel uses the lady's phone to call her dad. Her dad is worried and says, 'Where are you?' Mabel replies, 'I'm in the toy shop!' Her dad runs into the toy shop to pick up Mabel. Mabel is joyful to see her dad again!

A Special Childhood Memory

Do you know what it's like to be surrounded by people but still feel completely lost? Let me share a story from my childhood.

When I was 5 years old, I went to a shopping centre with my mum one day. I went into a shop to look at a teddy bear but Mum did not know that I went in. Then I couldn't find her. After I came out of the shop, I saw many people around me. I heard loud music from different shops. I felt scared and worried because I got lost. I cried loudly so everyone looked at me. Luckily, a security guard saw and came to me. He asked, "Why are you crying? How can I help you?" I said, "I am lost. I can't find my mum."

Finally, the security guard lent me his phone so I could call my mum. I was so happy because I could find my mum at last. I was grateful too because a kind man helped me.

It was an unforgettable memory. I learnt that I should always hold my mum's hand in busy places.

A Special Childhood Memory

Have you ever looked around but only seen strangers instead of your dad? Let me share an experience from my childhood.

When I was 7 years old in Primary 2, I went to Tai Wo to get some groceries with my dad and sister, Arianne. Arianne and I were running so fast that my dad didn't notice we were far away. We waited for our dad for five minutes, then we realised that we were lost. Arianne and I cried loudly while going upstairs. We went to the MTR station first but we couldn't find our dad. Then we went to a shop to ask a nice lady if we could use her phone. I asked, 'Could we borrow your phone? We lost our dad and we can't find him.' The nice lady gave me her phone to call my dad. After calling my dad, I finally saw him. Then I said, 'I am so sorry. I will never run away again!' I felt glad but afraid because I had got lost.

It was a scary memory. I learnt that I should never let go of my dad's hand.

A Special Childhood Memory

Have you ever been lost in a big shopping mall? I had the experience when I was 10 years old.

When I was 10 years old, I went to a big shopping mall with my grandma, dad and sister during the winter holiday. I was so busy looking at the milk tea shop that I didn't notice they were gone. I heard loud music from the shop, people talking and babies crying. I felt scared and worried.

I cried loudly and looked around for my family. Then a kind shop assistant came to me and said, 'Don't worry! Let's find your family together.' Finally, my dad, grandma and sister came to the desk to pick me up. Grandma felt very worried because she thought that I was missing.

It was a frightening yet meaningful memory. I learnt that asking for help from kind people is important when we are in trouble, and we should always keep our family in sight.

Yesterday, Miss Lee, my classmates and I went to the Hong Kong Science Museum in Tsim Sha Tsui to visit a dinosaur exhibition. We saw many dinosaur models. I felt excited.

After we entered the exhibition hall, Ken was naughty and he touched a dinosaur model. Immediately, I said to him, 'Stop! You can't touch it!' I felt nervous, but Ken ignored my advice.

Meanwhile, Ken also patted the dinosaur's shoulder. Suddenly, we heard a loud roar! We felt shocked.

At last, Miss Lee came over and told us the dinosaur model was activated by sensors. Ken apologised for touching it without permission. We continued to look at the exhibitions and we listened to Miss Lee's introduction about the dinosaurs. We took photos with the dinosaur models before leaving. I felt happy!

Yesterday, our class went to the Hong Kong Science Museum. The museum was huge so we were over the moon. We saw dinosaur models, displays and skeletons in the dinosaur exhibition.

Ken and I went to a hall where there was a very enormous dinosaur model. Ken wanted to touch a dinosaur model so I shouted, 'Stop! You can't touch it!' Just then, my friend Hin said the same thing.

Soon, we all heard a loud roar and we all jumped high like a cat. After a while, Miss Lee came too. She shouted at Ken because of his misbehaviour.

After we went back to school, Ken said sorry to us because he didn't follow the rules of the museum. I also learnt that we should not touch anything when we visit an exhibition.

I hope I can visit the Hong Kong Space Museum again soon because this was so much fun!

Tom's Birthday Surprise

Last year, Tom was an unhealthy boy. He ate a lot of sugary food such as chocolate sweets, cupcakes and candy. His mum said worriedly, 'Too much sugary food is bad for your teeth. If you don't stop eating them, you will get fat and have bad teeth.' However, Tom didn't listen to his mum and he kept eating sugary foods. At dinner, Tom didn't eat enough vegetables or fish. He was picky about his food. His mum said, 'You need to eat more vegetables and fish because they give you energy and help with your digestion. Tom felt disgusted with his food.'

This year, his mum asked Tom gently, 'Your birthday is coming soon. What birthday cake do you want?' Tom thought for a moment, 'Maybe I should have a sweet cake?' Tom was excited. Mum said, 'Sweet cake is alright!' Mum grinned and nodded her head.

On Tom's birthday, Mum said cheerfully, 'Happy birthday, Tom! Here is your special, sweet, crunchy and colourful veggie cake.' Tom felt blue and disgusted. Tom cried sadly, 'Mum, can you make another cake for me? I don't even like vegetables! They're disgusting!'

'Tom, it's healthy and it tastes yummy!' said Mum. Tom cried even louder, 'Mum! It's my birthday so I want to choose my own cake! Please!'

In the end, Mum persuaded Tom to try the veggie cake so she said, 'Try a little bit of it.' Tom reluctantly ate it! At the same time, Tom happily said, 'Wow, this veggie cake is amazing. The vegetables taste sweet, fresh and crunchy.' From then on, Tom had a balanced diet and was never picky about his food anymore. Mum was glad for Tom.

Tom's Birthday Surprise

Tom was an unhealthy boy. He always ate a lot of sugary food such as sweets, chocolate, cupcakes and chips, but he didn't eat any meat or vegetables. Mom was worried so she said, "You should eat more meat and vegetables because they give you energy and fibre. However, Tom turned a deaf ear to Mum and ate an imbalanced diet. Mum was even more worried.

This year, Tom's birthday was coming soon. Mom said to Tom, 'Your birthday is coming soon this month. I'll give you a special cake.' Tom thought to himself, 'Maybe it is a chocolate cake!' Mum grinned and Tom felt excited.

On Tom's birthday, Mum surprised him with a veggie cake that she had prepared for many hours. To Mum's surprise, Tom saw it and felt disgusted because he didn't like vegetables at all. Mum exclaimed, "It is made out of broccoli, carrots and tomatoes!" Then, Mum asked him to try it, but he didn't want to. After a while, Tom lost his temper and threw the cake on the floor. When Mum saw this, she felt furious and sad so she punished him. Immediately, Tom cried loudly and opened his mouth yelling. Mum saw this and took a chance to feed him one small bite of the veggie cake.

Unexpectedly, he was over the moon! Tom liked the vegetables because he thought the cake was sweet and crunchy. Since then, he always ate enough fruit and vegetables. He has a balanced diet now.

A Special Childhood Memory

Did you get lost when you were little? Do you know how scary it is when you get lost and feel confused? Let me share my childhood story with you.

When I was five years old in kindergarten, my parents and I went to an enormous shopping centre. It was so big. That day, it was Christmas so it was more crowded than ever. My little self couldn't see my feet in front of me, I was holding my mum's hand harder than ever. However, I saw a Santa figure and I was distracted because it was so cool. For one second, I said, 'Mum, look!' I turned around and I couldn't see my parents. I was so scared that I was shivering.

I cried loudly at first but I calmed myself down because I knew crying was no use. Suddenly, I heard a voice talking to me. 'Hello, kid. Are you lost? How can I help you?' It was a security guard. He took me back to my parents. I told them it was a complicated story when I was facing the maze.

My parents were proud of me because I could turn things around by myself. It was a terrifying and an unforgettable story.

Kelly's Diary

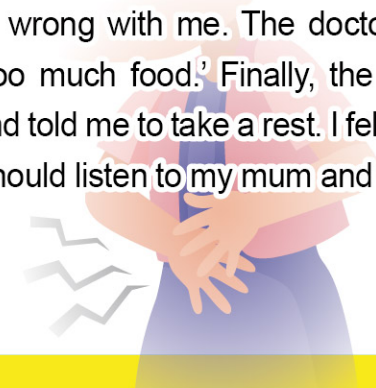

Day: Saturday Weather: Sunny Date: 8th November, 2025

I got good exam results so my parents celebrated with me yesterday. In the morning, my family took me to The Peak to see the beautiful views and talk about the buildings. We enjoyed the cool autumn breeze. We felt super amazed and stunned.

In the afternoon, we went to Happy Restaurant in Sai Kung and had a seafood lunch. We ordered tuna pizza and prawn salad. I liked the food so much so I ate a lot. Mum said, 'Kelly, you eat too much of the tuna pizza.' I said, 'Don't worry!' We were full and satisfied.

At night, I laid in bed but I felt sick and had a stomachache. I screamed, 'My stomach hurts. It feels so painful! Help!' I burst into tears. I felt sad and regret.

I told Mum and Dad that I felt pain. My family took me to the hospital to check what was wrong with me. The doctor said, 'You are fine but you ate too much food.' Finally, the doctor gave me some medicines and told me to take a rest. I felt better and relieved. I learnt that I should listen to my mum and should not eat too much.

Tom's Birthday Surprise

Tom was an unhealthy boy. Last year, he ate a lot of sugary food such as chocolate, cupcakes and sweets. He hated fruit and vegetables. At dinner, Tom didn't eat any fish or vegetables. Mum was worried and she said, 'Vegetables keep us healthy so they are good for you. You need to eat enough vegetables such as tomatoes, potatoes and lettuce.' Mum felt worried and angry but Tom felt annoyed.

This year, Mum asked, 'What do you want to have for your birthday party?' Tom said, 'I hope I can have a big chocolate birthday cake and I also want to eat a lot of fried food such as French fries, fried prawns and chicken nuggets.' Tom felt excited.

That day, Mum made a veggie cake for Tom. It contained a lot of chopped carrots, some broccoli and a few tomatoes. Mum said, 'Happy birthday to you, Tom! I made this cake for you as a present. I hope you will like it!' 'Oh no! I hate vegetables.' said Tom. Tom felt disgusted because he thought his birthday was ruined and he wanted to cry. Tom couldn't accept the present.

In the end, Mum said, 'Why don't you have a try of it? It is yummy!' Finally, Tom tried the cake and realised that the cake was actually delicious. He decided to have a balanced diet and eat more vegetables. It was an unforgettable birthday.

Be a Good Passenger

Yesterday, Winnie and I went home after school together. Then we got on the train. We chatted happily. We were joyful. The train was crowded, so we couldn't find a seat. We saw a woman with many shopping bags and she put all of them on the seat.

After a while, an old man got on the train. He walked with his walking stick. He wanted to have a seat but he couldn't get one. He walked in front of the woman but she did not notice him. She did not offer her seat to the old man. She was selfish. Suddenly, Winnie said to the woman loudly, 'Can you take the shopping bags away?' I was shocked.

The other passengers heard Winnie's voice. They looked at her and were angry. The woman felt embarrassed. She said sorry to the old man and offered him her seat. The old man said thank you to her. He was so happy.

From this experience, I learnt that we should be good passengers. We shouldn't be selfish and we should offer our seats to those in need.

My Birthday

11st November, 2025

Rainy

Yesterday, I had a birthday party at home. I decorated the house with some balloons with my family. Then, Dad gave me a robot. I was happy because the robot was really cool. It was my favourite robot and I was excited.

After that, my family sang a birthday song. I closed my eyes and made a wish. We were joyful. While we were clapping our hands, my sister accidentally knocked the robot off the table. The robot broke. I was angry and my sister felt scared.

Suddenly, my sister started to get angry. She screamed loudly. Then, without warning, she flipped the table and threw my birthday cake at me. I was very sad. In the end, Mom tried to stop my sister from throwing the cake. I was still sad because I didn't eat the cake or play with my robot.

Then, Dad saw me crying, so he gave me another robot from his pocket. He had two because the cashier told him that there was a 'buy one get one free' deal. I was over the moon.

A Story about Jason

Last Sunday night, Jason excitedly played online games in his bedroom and forgot to do his homework. He was over the moon.

The next morning, Jason returned to school. His teacher noticed that he had not done his homework and asked him why. Jason said, 'I fell over while I was sweeping the floor.' The teacher saw his bandaged arm and believed him. Jason was happy, thinking that he had tricked his teacher.

That afternoon, the teacher announced that they were going to Ocean Park, but Jason had to stay at school because of his 'injured' arm. He was very disappointed and regretted lying and pretending that he had hurt his arm.

A wave of regret washed over Jason. He was in a dilemma. 'What should I do?' he wondered. Thankfully, Chris came to his rescue. Chris said sincerely, 'Miss Chan, please let him come with us. I'll take care of him throughout the visit. Jason, be honest with Miss Chan.' Jason learnt that he should always be honest and never use lies to cover up his mistakes.

A Story about Jason

Last Sunday night, Jason was glued to an action-packed online battle game with his best friends in his huge bedroom. Defeating enemies and levelling up at lightning speed kept him on cloud nine. As a result, he completely neglected his homework.

The next morning, Jason was in class with Miss Chan and his classmates. Everything was normal until Miss Chan said, 'Class, pass your assignments to the front and I'll collect them.'

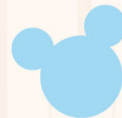

Jason didn't have his assignment, so he raised his hand and said, 'But Miss Chan, I broke my arm while I was helping Mum with the chores, so I couldn't do my assignment. If I hadn't broken my arm, I'd have done it already.' Miss Chan was both confused and worried, but she let it slide.

That afternoon, all of a sudden, Miss Chan came into Jason's classroom and announced that they were all going to Ocean Park right away, except for Jason. She explained that, because he had broken his arm, he had to stay behind and rest. Jason was so shocked that it took his breath away.

In the end, Jason told the truth. Miss Chan laughed so hard that her stomach started to hurt. However, Miss Chan had also been lying about going to Ocean Park so that Jason would admit the truth. Jason finally realised that Miss Chan had known he was lying the whole time. He was speechless. Jason learnt that he should always be honest and never use lies to cover up his mistakes.

Places in Hong Kong That You Shouldn't Miss

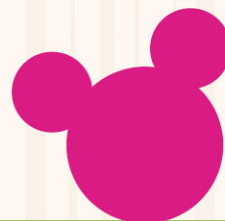

Have you ever thought about the hidden gems in Hong Kong? I'm so lucky that I've been to some of them before. However, I've never been to The Peak, sadly.

I have been to Ocean Park Hong Kong once. I went there when I was eight years old. I still remember crying so hard when I saw the pandas for the first time.

I have also been to Hong Kong Disneyland four times. On one visit, my dad wanted to go on a fast, scary and dark ride. Those words sent a chill down my spine, but we went on it anyway. My mum and I screamed at the top of our lungs until it ended. My dad was very happy, and even happier when he saw how angry we were with him!

I really want to go to The Peak because I've heard that the view there is absolutely amazing. I'll probably go there on my next holiday.

Last week, Dad and I went to the stadium to watch a football match. The people cheered loudly for their team. "I want to be a football coach when I grow up," I thought. I imagined I was the leader of my football team.

The next day, I played football with my friends. I wanted to improve my game so I needed to train myself. Unfortunately, I fell and hurt my leg badly. I cried because it was very painful. My friends quickly came to comfort me.

Then, I wanted to see the doctor straight away. Unfortunately, the doctor said I had broken my leg. He told me, "It will take months to get better." After that, I stopped playing football.

Luckily, I was able to continue to sing in my school choir team.

Dear Diary,

Last week, my family and I went to visit our grandma's house. We were excited because we hadn't seen her for a long time. However, halfway through our journey, the weather suddenly turned stormy and rainy. Then, a truck came by our car.

After driving for a few hours, we reached Shine Road. Suddenly, a huge landslide started coming down very quickly. It hit our car! It was full of mud and rocks. My parents and I were shocked.

After a while, the rescue team arrived because we got hurt. I had broken my arm so the paramedics took me to the ambulance and brought me to the hospital for a check-up. I said, 'My arm hurts a lot!' The paramedic said, 'You will be fine.' At the same time, my dad and mum were still stuck in the car and the rescue team was helping them.

At last, my parents were saved. Luckily, no one was seriously injured. I couldn't go to school for three days because it took some time for me to recover. Even though it was a scary experience, I was thankful that my family was safe.

Dear Diary,

Last week, I went to Grandma's house with Mum and Dad. There was heavy rain when Dad was driving along Shine Road. We chatted happily while it was raining outside. The road became wet and slippery. I felt uneasy and whispered, "Mum, I'm so scared."

After a while, a loud noise was heard. There was a landslide! Rocks and mud were washed down the hill and hit our car. Dad shouted loudly, "Hold on tight!" Mum was crying in fear and trying to call for help. I was terrified. The car was stuck in the thick mud, so we could not move at all.

Soon, firefighters and a rescue team arrived. They rescued me first because my arm was stuck in the car. Then they saved Mum and Dad. I was badly injured and cried, "My arm is in pain." The nurse said calmly, "Don't worry. You'll be okay."

We were sent to the hospital by an ambulance. The doctor gave me a check-up and said, "You need to stay here for a few days for safety reasons." I was very relieved that I was fine. It was a frightening experience but I felt grateful that my family and I were safe.

What a terrible experience!

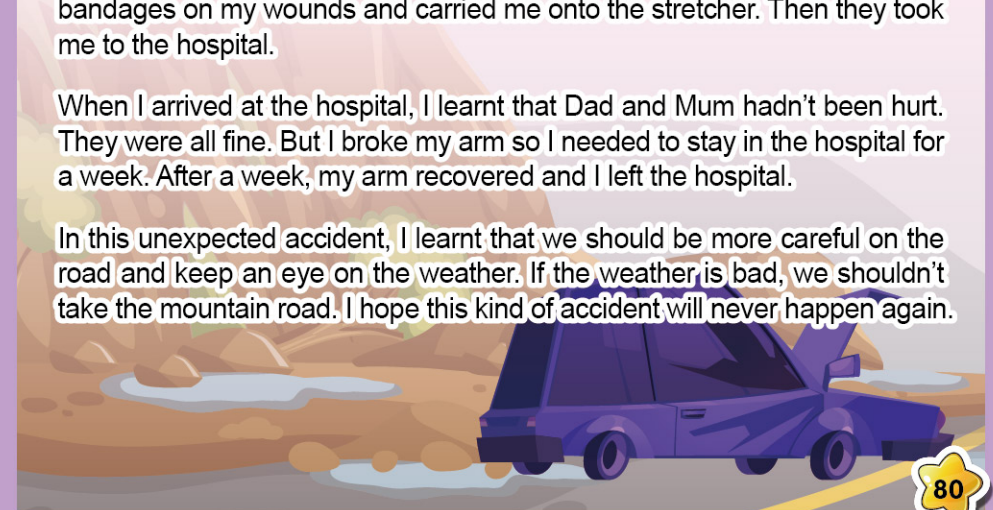

I was in a car with my family last week. The weather was awful. The sky was dark and gloomy. It was pouring and stormy. The road became very slippery. On the way home, Mum, Dad and I were chatting happily, but we didn't know a horrible nightmare would come soon.

Suddenly, we heard some sound coming from the roof of the car and a lot of rocks and sand slid down. "Oh no! It's a landslide! Aah!" We screamed at the top of our lungs. We all felt shocked and afraid. After a while, it became silent. Dad called the rescue team and said to us, "Don't be scared! We will be safe!"

The rescue team arrived quickly. I came back to my senses from shock when I heard the ambulance siren. My arm was hurt and it was painful. One of paramedics asked gently, "What's the matter?" I cried loudly, "My arm is so painful! I think I'm going to die." The paramedic comforted me softly, put bandages on my wounds and carried me onto the stretcher. Then they took me to the hospital.

When I arrived at the hospital, I learnt that Dad and Mum hadn't been hurt. They were all fine. But I broke my arm so I needed to stay in the hospital for a week. After a week, my arm recovered and I left the hospital.

In this unexpected accident, I learnt that we should be more careful on the road and keep an eye on the weather. If the weather is bad, we shouldn't take the mountain road. I hope this kind of accident will never happen again.

Diary Entry About a Car Accident

Sunday

Dear Diary,

Yesterday was a crazy day. We drove out to eat in a classy restaurant to celebrate Mum's master's degree. When we started the car, the sky was dark and gloomy. When we were on the highway, it started to rain. It was pouring like a waterfall. We blasted music at full volume to cover up the deafening noise which the rain was making.

Suddenly, through the glass windshield I could see mud and rocks flying everywhere. We were rooted to the spot. Mum told me, "Hold on tightly to the seat!" Dad cried out loudly, "Don't be scared! It's going to be okay!" I tried hard to follow the instructions but a rock flew into the car breaking the window and my hand was cut by it. It was a painful and terrible experience. Silent tears rolled down my cheeks but I tried hard to hold back my tears because I didn't want to alarm my parents.

My parents looked back and became as white as a sheet. They called the fire department in a blink of an eye. The firefighters and paramedics were dispatched to the scene almost immediately. I was carried onto the stretcher. I wept timidly, "I thought I was going to die! I am so grateful!" The nurse comforted me on the way to the hospital. I was diagnosed with a laceration on my hand. I had to stay in the hospital for a week. After being discharged from the hospital, I was told to come back weekly for check-ups.

While writing this diary entry, I realised I was very fortunate. I just want to appreciate the chance to live and the opportunity to be alive which were all granted by God. Now I see what is the most important thing in life: not money, but the chance to spend time living with family. Mum's telling me to sleep now! See you until tomorrow!

The New Boy Who Cried Wolf

Once upon a time, a boy named Peter felt really bored. To amuse himself, he yelled, "Help! Help! There's a wolf chasing my sheep!" The villagers down below dashed up the hill. They were as fast as lighting! When they arrived, they were puzzled to see the sheep eating grass happily. Just then, Peter burst out laughing, who laughed at the sight of the villagers' angry faces which were red like tomatoes. Then one of the boys called Mark asked, "What just happened?!" "Ha ha! You've been tricked!" said Peter, still laughing. The villages immediately went grumbling down the hill.

One day, Peter hurried to the villages and begged the villagers, "Please help me! My sister has been caught by the evil witch. Please help me rescue her!" But, the villagers had heard enough of his lies, and they all turned a deaf ear and walked away. Peter burst into tears and lost hope. However, he heard a voice. It was Mark. He said, "Let me help you." Therefore, they set off for the witch's castle.

The next day, they arrived at the witch's castle. They came up with a plan. Peter would distract the witch while Mark would be the one that saved Dora. Mark started to climb up the window which is the only way to go in. On the other side, Peter slammed the door open, and inside stood the witch who had captured Dora! The witch shouted angrily, "GET OUT OF MY CASTLE!" "NO!" Peter exclaimed. The witch used her magic to summon the bees to attack Peter. He immediately ran as fast as he could. Clever Peter hid behind the witch's back. Before the witch could react, all the bees had already stung the evil witch. She cried in pain.

Peter then ran into the castle and asked, "Mark! Have you found the key yet?" "Sure!" Mark exclaimed and he freed Dora! All of a sudden, Peter was dragged out of the castle by the witch's power. When he was struggling, he saw the witch who had bees all over her face. She threw Peter off the cliff! The witch ran into the castle, searching for Dora and Mark. Without warning, she heard a noise, it was coming from a room where the door was locked! She started running upstairs. In the meantime, Peter was saved and both boys rode on the broom, saying to Dora, "Hop on! Or else you will be stuck here forever!" "But...but...I'm scared. If I slip, I will fall into the sea!" Dora answered. "No, you won't. Trust me!" Then Dora started climbing out of the window carefully and slowly. Suddenly the door slammed open. "BANG!" The witch rushed to the window and tried to grab Dora's leg. Luckily Dora was not caught. All the kids flew back to their village safely finally!

Football Dream

Last Sunday, Dad and I went to the stadium for a football match. I have never watched any sport games before so I was very excited. After we arrived, I heard people screaming and shouting for their teams. That was extremely crazy! They also waved flags in the air. In the match, the players were running around and kicking the ball. That was soooooooo cool! 'I want to be a football star!' I said. 'Good idea! I support your dream!' said Dad.

The next day, I had a PE lesson at school. I was super happy because I like doing sports. When I heard that we were going to play football, I was on cloud nine! In the game, someone chased me. Then, my teammate shouted, 'Watch out!' In a flash, I tripped over the ball because I ran too fast. I felt pain. My classmates comforted me, 'Are you ok? Do you need to go to the nursing room?' I burst into tears and I couldn't answer them. Then, they took me to the nursing room. After that, my parents came to school and took me to the hospital.

In the hospital, the doctor told me that I twisted my ankle, so I had to rest for a week and not to do any sports. I was frustrated. 'Football is too hard but I will never give up!' I said to myself.

The NEW Boy Who Cried Wolf

Once upon a time, there was a boy called Peter who liked making up stories. One day, he felt bored. He wanted to play tricks on the villagers so he cried 'wolf' loudly. When the villagers took their weapons and rushed to Peter, he roared with laughter. He said, 'There are no wolves!' The villagers were mad and they ran away. Peter's best friend, Mark, said to him, 'You shouldn't tell lies. You should be honest.' However, Peter turned a deaf ear.

One day, a witch caught Peter's sister, Dora. Peter cried his eyes out. He asked for help but no one wanted to help him. The villagers thought that Peter was telling lies again. Mark was worried about it. He decided to help Peter and save Dora. The next day, Peter and Mark set off on a trip for the witch. They looked for the witch's castle. After a while, they found it. Mark said, 'Let's take out our weapon and save Dora!' Suddenly, Peter saw the villagers. He couldn't believe his eyes! The villagers had changed their minds. They came for Dora.

Peter, Mark and the villagers fought with the witch and finally they won. They were over the moon. Peter learnt that he should be honest. He promised he would not tell lies again.

The New Boy Who Cried Wolf

Once upon a time, there was a naughty boy called Peter who was a shepherd. He wanted to prank the villagers so he shouted, 'Help! Help! There is a wolf!' When the villagers heard this, they rushed as fast as lightning to save Peter. However, when they arrived, there was no wolf anywhere. They were confused and asked Peter where the wolf was. 'Hahaha! It was just a trick. It's not a big deal.' Everyone was angry. They all disliked Peter, except Mark, who was the only person that believed Peter when he cried for help later.

A week later, Peter's friend Dora was caught by a wicked witch. Peter hurried to the villagers to ask for help. He told them what happened but none of the villagers believed him except Mark. Therefore, Peter and Mark had to save Dora by themselves.

The next day, Peter and Mark went to the castle to save Dora. Peter was a bundle of nerves. They took a deep breath and went into the castle to fight the witch. Then, Mark looked for Dora everywhere while Peter was fighting the witch. Finally, they escaped from the castle but the witch kept chasing them. On their way to escape, they met some villagers. The villagers worked together and fought the witch. The witch was defeated. Peter, Dora and Mark went back to the village with the villagers safely. Peter learnt a valuable lesson. He became an honest boy who never told lies again.
